

Many Lives Lost in Mine Disaster At Cumberland, B.C.

Cumberland, B.C. The lives of 23 men were snuffed out as the result of an explosion in No. 4 shaft Thursday night, according to a statement given out by officials of the Canadian Coalfields Limited, the owners of the mine. The explosion occurred at 10:30 p.m. and was the most serious in the history of the mine. It was the first time since the mine was opened in 1910 that so many lives were lost. The explosion was caused by a gas leak which had been detected by the mine officials. The gas was ignited by a lighted cigarette which had been thrown away by one of the miners. The explosion was so violent that it threw up a column of smoke and dust which was seen for miles around. The mine was closed for several days and the bodies of the dead miners were recovered. The cause of the explosion is still under investigation.

U. S. COMMISSION WILL NOT FAVOR OTHER NATIONS MORE THAN BRITAIN

Washington. The U. S. debt commission does not desire to make any favorable terms with the debtor nations that are embroiled in the settlement of the war.
